CURES GUARANTEED, OR NO PAY REQUIRED.

IN ALL CASES WHERE CONFIDENCE IS REQUIRED THE UTMOST SECRESY MAINTAINED.

The above rules, established Dr. J. C. Young in 1850, which have done so much to secure the reputation of this Institute, are still adhered to, affording those in need of Medical aid, the certainty of a cure the most confidence. There is nothing of so great importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and humanity are a guarantee of proper and immediate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes who are suffering or in trouble to the invariable success that has attended the career of the Institute in the seventeen years it has been established.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the different kinds treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it necessary to call especial attention to the two great scourge, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, that is ravaging with its insidious power the very life of its victims; the treatment and cure of which by the Institute has established a reputation

525 MILES
OF THE
UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD
Running West from Omaha
ACROSS THE CONTINENT,
ARE NOW COMPLETED.
THIS BRINGS THE LINE TO THE EASTERN BASE of the Rocky Mountains, at which it is expected that the track will be laid thirty miles further to Evans Pass the highest point on the road by January. The maximum grade from the foot of the mountains to the summit is but eighty feet to the mile while that of many eastern roads is over one hundred. Work in the rock-cutting on the western slope will continue through the winter and there is now no reason to fear that the entire grand line to the Pacific will be open for business in 1870.
The means provided for the construction of this Great National Work are ample. The United States grants its Six Per Cent. Bonds at the rate of from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile for which it takes a second lien as security and receives payment to a large amount to be full set out of its claim in services. These bonds are issued as each twenty mile section is finished and after it has been examined by the United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first class road thoroughly supplied with depots, repair shops, stations, and all the necessary rolling stock and other equipments.
The United States also makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile which will be a source of large revenue to the Company. Much of the land in the Platte Valley is among the most fertile in the world and other large portions are covered with heavy pine forests and abound in coal of the best quality.
The Company is also authorized to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an amount equal to the issue of the Government and no more. Hon. E. D. Morgan and Hon. Oakes Ames are Trustees for the Bondholders and deliver the bonds to the Company only as the work progresses so that they always represent an actual and productive value.
The authorized capital of the Company is One Hundred Million Dollars of which over five millions have been paid in upon the work already done.

EARNINGS OF THE COMPANY.
At present, the profits of the Company are derived only from its local traffic but this is already much more than sufficient to pay the interest on all the Bonds the Company can issue if not an other mile were built. It is not doubted that when the road is completed through the traffic of the only line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States will be large beyond precedent and as there will be no competition it can always be done at profitable rates.
It will be noticed that the Union Pacific Railroad is in fact a Government Work built under the supervision of Government officers and to a large extent with Government money and that its bonds are issued under Government direction. It is therefore felt that no similar security is so carefully guarded and kept only no other based upon a larger or more valuable property than the Company's.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
are offered for the present at 95 CENTS ON THE DOLLAR, IN U. S. CURRENCY they are the cheapest security in the market being more than 15 per cent lower than U. S. Stocks. They pay
SIX PER CENT. IN GOLD, or over NINE PER CENT. on the investment. Subscriptions will be received in this City by

The Klamath Lake County

An introductory article about the Klamath Lake country appears in a late number of the Yreka Journal. We give the most interesting portions of the Journal's article.

The extensive region of country in the vicinity of Klamath Lake and Upper Lakes is now in a fair way of being speedily settled up for farming and ranching purposes and destined to build up a trade that will be of great wealth to whatever place is enterprising enough to secure it. The entire country north of this place as far as John Day's river and east to Idaho is a continuous range for cattle covered with a luxuriant growth of bunch grass which is regarded as a superior feed for stock. There are also thousands of acres of the finest land for agricultural purposes to be found anywhere that only needs tilling, to make it all ondant in the production of cereals, plants and fruits customary to the climate of California and Oregon. The lakes and rivers also afford excellent opportunities for irrigation and by very little effort in digging the outlet of Klamath Lake thousands of acres of marsh lands could be uncovered for agricultural purposes. All the streams are navigable for flatboats, and large vessels can sail comfortably for 40 miles on the Lake and 80 miles up Sprague river towards Fort Klamath. Good landing can also be effected almost any place along the lake or Sprague river as the water is quite deep close to the banks. On the South side of the lakes, as well as on the Islands in the lakes, there is an abundance of good timber of every variety, but on the north easterly side the country is almost barren of timber or shrubbery. All such claims have already been taken up in the vicinity of Link and Lost rivers and there are great improvements in progress on the reservation at the mouth of Sprague river where a saw mill and grist mill will be put up this summer as well as a large tract of land cultivated with grain. At Link river where the principal settlement is at present are their saw mills to be put up thus affording excellent opportunities for settlers to build boats toward supplying the country and transporting produce to market. The people of Link river are anxious to do their trading with Yreka in preference to Jacksonville although they belong to that county for the reason that they can get to Yreka at all seasons of the year. A good wagon road now runs from Yreka to Killibrew's ferry on the Klamath turning off from the Oregon road at Jas. Bradley's ranch towards Bogus, in reference to which we learn a petition is to be presented to the Board of Supervisors, asking to have this private road declared a public highway. From Killibrew's ferry to the old emigrant or Applegate road there needs to be but seven or eight miles of road built which will connect us with the Klamath Lake country as well as opening a direct road to Surprise Valley. This short piece of road could be built at a trifling expense and render Yreka within seven miles as near the Klamath Lake as Cottonwood, or sixty five miles from Yreka to Link river. Mr. Nourse the sole trader of that section of present, who has two trading posts came in to town last Monday for goods to replenish a portion of his needed assortment and says this is the best place for him to purchase goods if the road is opened from Killibrew's to the Applegate road from the fact that he could team cheaper by getting goods via Red Bluff than packing from Jacksonville and getting goods via Crescent City. The California and Oregon boundary line is to be re-established by a Commission for which Congress appropriated $5,000 and it is believed the settlers will make the line 12 miles further South than is now claimed. Houses have been erected for them. The physician of the Reservation, Dr. Joseph Webster, informs me that those who occupy them are much healthier and more easily cured than those occupying the ordinary hovels, though their preferences are given to the latter. So in their mode of dress, they prefer a blanket to any other attire.

The physician's success would be greater if a hospital were erected at Neah Bay. I understand the subject has been submitted to the Department. The Indians generally are not very ingenious. The women make an ill attempt at sewing. They manufacture baskets of bark and grass—an art which has but recently been learned by them. They are very skillful in handling their canoes in rough water. Near the upper entrance to the Bay is Maggs' Island, now occupied by a gentleman by that name who has a store above the reservation, and does a lively business with the Indians, bartering flour and merchandize for dog fish oil etc.

This sketch is imperfect but it is submitted in the hope that it may be found to contain something of interest.

PETROLEUM NASBY.—Writing from Toledo to the Blade Ralph Keeler gives the following information concerning this distinguished national character:

D. R. Locke, the gentleman who is so well known under the above alias, lives here in Toledo and is the editor of the Blade. The above facts seem to be pretty well known. For in whatever part of this broad continent I have taken occasion to mention Toledo, I have been asked immediately if I ever saw "Nasby." About the first thing that I did, therefore, in this city, was to get myself introduced to him. He was in his shirt sleeves in the very highest story of the Blade building, looking over some exchanges. "Sit down sir" he said, "how are things?" This was the introduction to our first conversation. I have seen a good deal of him since, and have found him to be the oddest, best natured specimen of our race that I have come across. He is a short chubby man, about thirty five years of age dark hair gray blue eyes, chin whiskers and is married. He was born in Vestal, New York near which place at Cortland he learned the printing business was a journeyman printer many years, published a considerable number of country papers and reported some on city journals. He commenced the Nasby letters in his own paper the Hancock Jeffersonian, at Findlay, Ohio in 1861. He has already published two books and the third, which is to be called "Ekkoes from Kentucky" is coming out this month in Boston. Last winter Mr. Locke refused 300 invitations to lecture because he was afraid to stand before an audience. He says he never could master courage to see on a motion at a political meeting. Not long since a delegation of thirty people out of sheer curiosity came all the way from Dayton and Cincinnati to see the man who wrote the Nasby letters, and the poor fellow had to be dragged by main force from a heap of rubbish into which he had precipitated himself for concealment and then he thanked God in their hearing when they started to leave. In the face of all this he has prepared a lecture which he entitles "The Nigger" and is now engaged to deliver it in over one hundred towns and cities. In reply to the question how he was going to stand before so many audiences he said "I'm building a big house and I must have the money."

THE LATE STORM IN CALIFORNIA.—The following is from Trinity Center, under date of February 25th:

The past week has been one incessant storm and it is still storming. From three to five feet of snow yet remains upon the ground, and is so soft as to render all efforts at traveling almost useless. All the streams have been very high. On Clear creek about two miles of telegraph line is washed away and about the same distance of the stage road is gone. Cottonwood creek and Clear creek, between Shasta and Red Bluff, have been impassable for a week. No stage has arrived at Shasta from the South since the 18th and no communication of any kind south of Shasta since that date. The Sacramento river is higher than it was four feet higher than ever before known. Years are entertained that the country below will be flooded.

It is estimated that in the population of the United States entitled to Congressional representation there is one lawyer to every 1,000 do, one merchant to every 250 do one manufacturer to every 65 do one farmer to every 10 do.

Notes from Neah Bay

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

At this season of the year the trip from Victoria to Portland by sea, is rather uncertain as to time but Capt Erskine of the Wilamette is certain to bring his vessel safely through.

The Columbia Bar is the spot upon which Neptune sends forth his winds with unusual fury to invade the domains of Neptune knowing that the bar could not be crossed in the heavy weather of last week, Capt Erskine, like a cautious and prudent seaman, preferred to remain in Neah Bay rather than lie in the turbulent seas off the bar and accordingly he put into the bay where the vessel lay for four and a half days, which saved the passengers much discomfort that they would have experienced otherwise.

Neah Bay in the Straits of Fuca, is located six miles from the entrance and one hundred and forty six miles north of the Columbia river Bar. It is a safe and commodious anchorage for vessels of any tonnage. The surrounding country is mountainous with the exception of a small breadth of land covered with dense forests of fir and hemlock. The climate I am informed, is moist and cold more rain falling here than at any place South. At the bay is an Indian village besides a large commodious school house, blacksmith and carpenter shops, with neat dwellings attached all built in the most substantial and durable manner belonging to the Makah Indian Reservation, under the agency of Henry A. Webster Esq who located a few miles above the reservation in 1855 for the purpose of establishing a codfishery. Becoming interested in the elevation of the character of the Makah Indians, he has labored with many difficulties to overcome and has now the satisfaction of partly realizing his wishes. Fifteen acres of the prairie land has been cleared and is under cultivation. Five miles south is the reservation farm seventy five acres of which are under fence. Owing to the moisture of the climate cereals do not attain full growth. Vegetables excel. Thirty acres of potatoes were raised during the past year by the farmers of the reservation and distributed to the Indians. Cattle thrive astonishingly and are precocious in growth. With all the zeal the agent has employed to instruct the tribe in agricultural pursuits, his success has been limited.

The Makah's number seven hundred souls. In former years they had the reputation of being savage and treacherous. Their winter residences are four villages, Neah, Waatch, Tsoo ess and Osette. The three latter are on the immediate coast. They are essentially a fishing tribe. Only a few attain any skill in the chase,—at least their predilections do not take that turn. Halibut and whale are their principal diet the former being caught at all seasons of the year at the entrance to the Straits. Their manner of whaling is altogether by canoes manned usually by eight men. When a whale is caught they strike him with as many harpoons as they can throw into him each of which has large bladders attached to prevent the whale from sinking. After killing they tow the body to the beach and try out the oil. All parts of it are consumed by them, the oil being considered a delicacy. Dog fish oil, which they obtain from the liver of that fish, is one of their chief articles of barter.

Within the past year there has been two ships—the Ellen Foster and Lizzie Boggs, wrecked near Cape Flattery. The greater part of the rigging, sails, bolts and copper, were stripped by the Indians and delivered to the agent of the Reservation who holds it for the benefit of the owners of the wreck, the Indians receiving an equitable salary for the same.

Owing to the stringent laws made and executed by the agent, liquor is never used among them. Prostitution and its train of evils have been totally eradicated. Great efforts have been made to better their sanitary condition. A number of houses have been erected for them. The physician of the Reservation, Dr. Joseph Webster, informs me that those who occupy them are much healthier and more easily cured than those occupying the ordinary hovels, though their preferences are given to the latter. So in their mode of dress, they prefer a blanket to any other attire.

The physician's success would be greater if a hospital were erected at Neah Bay. I understand the subject has been submitted to the Department. The Indians generally are not very ingenious. The women make an ill attempt at sewing. They manufacture baskets of bark and grass—an art which has but recently been learned by them. They are very skillful in handling their canoes in rough water. Near the upper entrance to the Bay is Maggs' Island, now occupied by a gentleman by that name who has a store above the reservation, and does a lively business with the Indians, bartering flour and merchandize for dog fish oil etc.

This sketch is imperfect but it is submitted in the hope that it may be found to contain something of interest.

PETROLEUM NASBY.—Writing from Toledo to the Blade Ralph Keeler gives the following information concerning this distinguished national character:

D. R. Locke, the gentleman who is so well known under the above alias, lives here in Toledo and is the editor of the Blade. The above facts seem to be pretty well known. For in whatever part of this broad continent I have taken occasion to mention Toledo, I have been asked immediately if I ever saw "Nasby." About the first thing that I did, therefore, in this city, was to get myself introduced to him. He was in his shirt sleeves in the very highest story of the Blade building, looking over some exchanges. "Sit down sir" he said, "how are things?" This was the introduction to our first conversation. I have seen a good deal of him since, and have found him to be the oddest, best natured specimen of our race that I have come across. He is a short chubby man, about thirty five years of age dark hair gray blue eyes, chin whiskers and is married. He was born in Vestal, New York near which place at Cortland he learned the printing business was a journeyman printer many years, published a considerable number of country papers and reported some on city journals. He commenced the Nasby letters in his own paper the Hancock Jeffersonian, at Findlay, Ohio in 1861. He has already published two books and the third, which is to be called "Ekkoes from Kentucky" is coming out this month in Boston. Last winter Mr. Locke refused 300 invitations to lecture because he was afraid to stand before an audience. He says he never could master courage to see on a motion at a political meeting. Not long since a delegation of thirty people out of sheer curiosity came all the way from Dayton and Cincinnati to see the man who wrote the Nasby letters, and the poor fellow had to be dragged by main force from a heap of rubbish into which he had precipitated himself for concealment and then he thanked God in their hearing when they started to leave. In the face of all this he has prepared a lecture which he entitles "The Nigger" and is now engaged to deliver it in over one hundred towns and cities. In reply to the question how he was going to stand before so many audiences he said "I'm building a big house and I must have the money."

THE LATE STORM IN CALIFORNIA.—The following is from Trinity Center, under date of February 25th:

The past week has been one incessant storm and it is still storming. From three to five feet of snow yet remains upon the ground, and is so soft as to render all efforts at traveling almost useless. All the streams have been very high. On Clear creek about two miles of telegraph line is washed away and about the same distance of the stage road is gone. Cottonwood creek and Clear creek, between Shasta and Red Bluff, have been impassable for a week. No stage has arrived at Shasta from the South since the 18th and no communication of any kind south of Shasta since that date. The Sacramento river is higher than it was four feet higher than ever before known. Years are entertained that the country below will be flooded.

It is estimated that in the population of the United States entitled to Congressional representation there is one lawyer to every 1,000 do, one merchant to every 250 do one manufacturer to every 65 do one farmer to every 10 do.

Democratic Bluster

The Democracy comprising a set of hungry office seekers and ex rebels, are already beginning to bluster over their temporary success in carrying a few State elections on the strength of prejudice and local issues. Imagine consequently that the American people who believe in the principles of universal freedom and equality of the Union will naturally follow them like a drove of sheep to reinstate that domineering rule which obtained by them before the rebellion, when a Republican in many sections of the country, if he registered his life in being caught advocating or attempting to vote as his conscience dictated. The people may have been dissatisfied with the war as advanced by the Republicans, still they were not so much opposed to them as to aid in the restoration of rebel ascendency, and giving the government over to the hands of those who aided in murdering relatives and friends during the honorable struggle for the preservation of our government. It was prejudice that kept up the Democratic party toward gaining power for the last half century and it seeks to maintain the ascendancy by the same weapons regardless of right or justice.

The leaders of the Democratic party are aware that the higher the standard of intelligence among the people the lesser are the chances for the Democracy, and thus it is that they appeal to the basest prejudices by misrepresentation and falsehood, in reference to any effort toward improving the condition of the entire population, by affording means of protection to the black of life liberty and the pursuit of happiness, any man of reason very well knows could be guaranteed in the South toward any loyal man without the beneficent measures adopted by Congress especially when we have a Republican President to encourage the ex rebels to acts of lawlessness and cold blooded massacre.

There will be a turn in the tide next fall similar to that occurring in 1864 after several of the Northern States were exultantly carried by the Democracy, on the strength of the Emanc

There is nothing of so great importance to the sick as to know where to find a physician whose skill and humanity are a assurance of proper and immediate treatment. The Doctor would respectfully call the attention of those of both sexes who are suffering or in trouble to the invariable success that has attended the career of the Institute in the seventeen years it has existed.

It is unnecessary in this connection to enumerate all the complaints treated at the Institute, but the Doctor feels it necessary to call especial attention to that terrible scourge, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, that is sapping with its insidious hand the very life of its victims; in the treatment and cure of which the Institute has met so enviable a reputation.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 17 1868

Good "Democratic" Testimony

In April, 1861, Jefferson Davis summoned his Congress to meet in special session at Montgomery, to take active measures for carrying on war against the United States. In his special message on that occasion he asserted that "the Democratic party of the United States stood pledged summarily to the principles which justified secession." The seceding States had only put in practical operation the doctrines of the "Resolutions of '98 and '99," a Virginia party was founded, and which had been affirmed and reiterated by that organization on numberless occasions. Mr. Davis argued that the Northern States were stopped from denying the right of a State to withdraw from the Union at its own pleasure. He said that "from a period as early as 1798, there had existed in all the States a party, almost uninterruptedly in the majority, based upon the creed that each State was, in the last resort, the sole judge, as well of its wrongs as of the mode and measure of redress," and that this was the doctrine which had been acted upon by the States forming the confederation which owned his sway. Thus by the declarations of the head of the rebel government, (an authority which no Democrat has yet called in question) it is established that the principles of the Democratic party led to secession, and were the means by which the seceders justified their action. Here is the testimony of those who rebelled, setting forth the causes which impelled them to the act, and appealing to Democratic principles for their justification. Here we find those who brought on the war, having how, why, and on what principles they did it. Certainly it will be conceded that they ought to know what views and principles they acted upon. Their chief says that they did it in conformity with the doctrines of the Democratic party; and yet Democratic orators and unfrequently declare that the Republicans brought on the war! Is it fair to presume that those men as Jo. Smith, (who made this charge against the Republicans here the other night), know more about the causes which led to secession than do the secessionists themselves, especially as Smith and his party declare that Davis and his confreres are honorable men whose veracity cannot be questioned?

But this statement does not depend wholly on the testimony of Jefferson Davis. In Buchanan's last annual message, delivered a few months before Davis sent this communication to his Congress, the Democratic theory of the nature and powers of the Government was set forth in a manner fully justified Davis in taking the position he assumed. In that message Buchanan says: "The question fairly stated is, has the Constitution delegated to Congress the power to coerce a State into submission which is attempting to withdraw, or has actually withdrawn, from the confederacy? If answered in the affirmative, it must be on the principle that the power has been conferred on Congress to declare war against a State. After much reflection, I have arrived at the conclusion that no such power has been delegated to Congress or to any other department of the Federal Government. Congress may employ many means of preserving the Union by negotiation; but the sword was not placed in their hand to preserve it by force." Mr. Davis had been directly notified by a Democratic President that secession would be taken during his term, or ought to be taken at all, to enforce the laws. Were not the rebel authorities clearly right in holding that they were justified by Democratic principles in the course they had taken?

We might go on indefinitely to show how the rebellion grew out of the application and enforcement of Democratic principles, but we only desire to add two, the suggestiveness of which makes them of somewhat greater value than the testimony of those who rebelled. It might not be necessary to refer to the testimony of Jefferson Davis to further to the public mind; but the unanimity with which the Democratic party has stood by Rebels in the endeavor to foster the cripple of their party in power, while it has pursued the country, destruction and should not be suffered to pass with at refutation.

How Wealth is Produced.

Though [illegible] of sovereign power in this country [illegible] ple of the United States; not, however, in the [illegible] of natural persons, but [illegible] organized people. This is the [illegible] fact in our political [illegible], that all sovereignty is held by the organized political people of the United States. Some years ago, by the decision of the [illegible] tion, followed up by correspondent [illegible] during more than four years, the [illegible] of about one-third of the States abjured, [illegible] withheld, in a manner as solemn as [illegible] for them to do, their associated [illegible] of the powers of the political people of the country. That they had no right to take this action was not after the fact that they did take it. Secession by the people of one-third of the States, where did the sovereign power of the [illegible] reside? Clearly it was found in the [illegible] organized political people of the other States. From this again alone the written Constitution derives its authority, and their representatives alone constituted the General Government. That, had the same dominion over the whole territory which had belonged to the people of the United States, when the people of the [illegible] "seceding" States were associated with them. It follows therefore that when the seceding States were re-possessed by the Government, they [illegible] as much laws as the political people of the United States saw fit to prescribe for them. It was thought desirable that new State Governments should be formed as soon as possible; but it was clearly competent for the sovereign power of the country to govern them for an indefinite period without State organizations. The Executive, as Commander-in-Chief of the army, so governed them for months after the close of the war. The above remarks contain the idea on which the Congressional plan of reconstruction is founded. The principle is perfectly logical and intelligible. At the close of the war the sovereign power of the country remained, as during the war, exclusively with those who had been faithful to their constitutional obligations; and in their hands rested the control of the whole work of restoration.

Bonham, one of the Democratic lights at Salem, says "it's no use of trying to make a nigger a white man." As his party have been trying the experiment for many years, perhaps this announcement ought to be deemed authoritative, and final to settle the matter. But we are not prepared to bear a Democrat admit the poorness of his party in bleaching out the negro. The half a million of mulattoes in the country would seem to indicate that Democratic [illegible] in this line has been greater than the despond at Bonham would suppose.

[illegible] suspend writes from Lafayette that it is positively stated that an importation of Copperheads, to the number of fifty, was to be brought into Yamhill county from Marion and Washington last week. They were "coming in to school their children." Probably. To "school" them in the dishonest practices of their fathers. This is the most effectual method of Democratic education.

A Union Club was organized at Lafayette on the 29th ult., with the following officers: A. S. Watt, President; A. R. Burbank, Vice President, and R. P. Bird, Secretary. The Club holds its meetings on the first and fourth Saturdays in each month, at two o'clock P. M.

On the Rampage at Albany.

At a meeting of the "Democratic" Club of Albany last week, the following resolution, as we learn by their local organ, was "unanimously adopted:"

"Resolved, That, venerating and loving the Constitution, and regarding it as the palladium of our liberty, we are willing to lend our countenance and support to any officer who is striving to uphold and defend it, and we therefore hereby pledge our hearty and unanimous support to the President of the United States in his resistance to the unconstitutional and revolutionary impeachment schemes of the so called Congress."

From all the reports we can get, it appears that the President is receiving no offers of material aid from any place except Oregon. In a few localities here the Copperheads are passing resolutions like the above, hoping to stimulate Johnson to resistance and pledging him their valuable support in case he concludes to employ force to defeat the efforts of those who have resorted to the highly "unconstitutional and revolutionary" process of impeachment. There is a reason why the "Democracy" here should pass such sturdy resolutions. Our State is at a greater distance than any other from the scene of "Moses'" tribulations. Offers of help from this quarter are therefore cheap and safe. It costs the resolvers nothing to make this display of courage. They know there is no danger that they will ever be called on to back the individual whom they were want, in other days, to call a "drunken brute," but who is now the object of their very high admiration. It will do for them at this distance to shout brave words to Andy and offer him their support to resist impeachment; but under the circumstances he will probably feel like returning them the petulant answer of the old knight in the play,—"Call you that backing your friends? A plague upon such backing!" Even when they undertake to cheer his heart by transmitting to him their brave resolutions by telegraph, the dispatch invariably bears such cabalistic characters as the following: "114, collect at the White House $123 76." Such is "Democratic" sympathy for Johnson.

While the Albany Democrat heartily endorses this resolution, it distinctly avers that it does "not mean to say that it endorses Johnson as a man or a politician. He was once a good Democrat," says that paper, "but we can never forget how basely he betrayed us in the hour of trial." There's the rub! When the Southern revolt began, Johnson took a decided stand against the conspirators. Before that he was a "good Democrat; but by this act he forfeited his standing in the party. "In the hour of trial," says the Democrat,—the hour when the "Democratic" cause at the South needed all the support it could get,—"he basely betrayed us,"—that is to say he came out on the side of the Union, and threw what influence he possessed against "us,"—which means those who were devoted to the fortunes of the Southern Confederacy. For this, he shall not be forgiven. We gather, therefore, from this view of the case, that the Albany resolution does not actually mean war. The recollection of Johnson's past sins in supporting the Union would prevent him from receiving any enthusiastic support from that quarter—though the Democrat declares that "the course he is now pursuing is right—is constitutional." As that paper holds that his former course was wrong and unconstitutional, how does it happen that he is right now? Who has changed? Is it Johnson, or the Democratic party? How is it that they are now in such perfect accord? And yet they tell us that Johnson is adhering to Lincoln's policy!

THE INDIAN WEED.—The official catalogue of the London Exhibition, vol. 1, page 180, contains the following curious remarks on tobacco smoking: "The total quantity retained for home consumption in 1848, amounted to nearly 17,000,000 lbs. North America alone produced annually upward of 200,000,000. The combustion of this mass of vegetable material would yield about 340,000,000 lbs. of carbonic acid gas; so that the yearly increase of carbonic acid gas from tobacco smoke alone can not be less than 1,000,000,000 lbs; a large contribution to the annual demand for this gas made upon the atmosphere for the vegetation of the world. Henceforth let none twit the smoker with idleness and unimportance. Every pipe is an agricultural furnace—every smoker a manufacturer of vegetation, the consumer of a weed, that he may rear more largely his own provisions."

The Dean of Carlysle, in a recent lecture on the use of tobacco, calculates that the entire world of smokers, snuffers and chewers, consume two million tons annually, or 4,480,000,000 lbs. weight—as much tonnage as the corn consumed by 10,000,000 of Englishmen, and actually at a cost sufficient to pay for all the bread corn eaten in Great Britain. Five millions and a half of acres are occupied in its growth, chiefly cultivated by slave labor, the product of which at twopence per lb. would yield thirty-seven millions of pounds sterling. The time would fail to tell of the vast amount of smoking in Turkey and Persia. In India, all classes and both sexes indulge in this practice, the Siamese both chew and smoke. In Burmah, all ages practice it—children three years old and of both sexes. China equally contributes to the general mania; and the advocates of the habit boast that about one-fourth of the human race are their clients, or that there are certainly 250,000,000 smokers!

NEW GEOGRAPHY.—The Sentinel has received from the publishers, E. Butler & Co., Philadelphia, a specimen page of a new work, which will be ready this fall, entitled a new system of physical geography, by John Brocklesby, Prof. of Mathematics in Trinity College, Hartford, Connecticut. The following paragraph giving a description of a great natural curiosity in Southern Oregon, is extracted by the Sentinel.

In Oregon, northwards from the point where the Klamath river breaks through the Cascade Range to the gorge of the Columbia, small bodies of water exist, some of which equal, however, in the grandeur of their scenery, a remarkable expanse of water, called Lake Majesty, which is not far from Fort Klamath. According to the account of Capt. R. F. Sprague, who visited this lake, it is nearly circular, and has a diameter of from seven to eight miles; it is surrounded by precipices of volcanic rock seven or eight hundred feet in height which are almost perpendicular, the shores of the lake being reached with great difficulty. The waters are as clear as crystal, and near the western margin is an island about half a mile in diameter, shaped like the frustum of a cone, and with a depressed summit, in which there appears to be a crater. The whole surroundings of the lake, in the opinion of Captain Sprague, prove it to be the crater of an extinct volcano.

Of the 150,000 school teachers in the United States, over 100,000 are females.

DATES TO MARCH 8.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The House spent the day in special debate. The proceedings were quite [illegible]. The Senate spent the morning hour in discussing the action of the Secretary of the Treasury in refusing to pay the salary of Governor Ballard, of Idaho.

The pension appropriation bill passed after a lengthy debate.

The Senate proceeded to vote for the diplomatic appropriation bill. Till the question came up relating to the Mission to Portugal, lasted till 4 o'clock.

The Virginia Convention.

RICHMOND, March 7.—In the Convention to-day the case of Wallbridge, the conservative member, who refused to vote yesterday on the disfranchising clause, was taken up. After the case was referred to the committee. During its consideration, conservative refused to vote on the ground of their complete despair for the proposition. Afterwards he added that he have no contempt for the whole establishment. He was compelled to vote under the by which the disfranchising clause was adopted yesterday. Colonel Chamberlayne said he, saying therein and that a delegation had been received today from Washington stating that this vote must be reconsidered. This in no way influenced. The whole question was put and will not Thursday.

Great Storm in the East

CHICAGO, March 8.—Reports of damages to railroad bridges and telegraph lines come from all quarters. The storm has now ceased and all damage will be soon repaired. A train of the Missouri Pacific Railroad near Jefferson City, ran off a large bridge which had washed from the track on Saturday night. The locomotive was thrown from the track and fell into the Missouri river bottom side up carrying with it the engineer and fireman. The body of the former has not yet been recovered, though his feet are sticking out of the water.

Hancock asks to be Relieved

The Tribune says Hancock asks to be relieved from command of the Fifth District, because Grant revoked his order removing certain members of the City Council, also his order removing the Street Commissioner. The request is made in the usual formal manner, through army headquarters.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

LONDON, March 8.—Late dispatches from China and Japan have been received via India.

The civil war in Japan raged with great violence. Several combats had taken place between the Tycoon and the Daimos which were attended with heavy loss of life. Great excesses were being committed on both sides. In consequence of the insecure condition of the country the ministers of Foreign Powers had all left Osaka.

Burke, Casey and Shaw charged with being concerned in the Clerkenwell explosion, were brought quietly from Warwick to Newgate in charge of twenty policemen.

LONDON, (Midnight), March 8.—In the House of Commons this evening, Disraeli appeared for the first time since the resignation of Derby. Upon entering he was received with loud cheers from both the government and opposition benches. Disraeli soon afterward rose and after giving notice of the introduction of certain motions pertaining to Scotland and Ireland, he referred to the retirement of Derby saying his colleagues were loth to sever their connection with such a leader. No language could express their estimate of the character of such a chief, and all most earnestly hoped for his permanent restoration to health and power. Disraeli then proceeded to say that Her Majesty had been pleased to entrust to him the task of government, and he could not decline the gracious offer, accompanied as it was, by the generous support of his colleagues. In domestic affairs, the policy of Lord Derby, during the last two years of his administration, would be followed by the new Minister, and in foreign affairs, the policy of Lord Stanley would be adhered to. This would be the policy of peace and not one of dissolution but one of generous regard for our own interests and those of other nations. Such a policy would never lessen the influence or dignity of England. The general policy of the Government would be liberal. (Cheers and laughter.) recognizing national traits as best for securing national institutions. He regretted the necessity of continuing the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus in Ireland and as Lord Derby had said on a previous occasion such action was the only safeguard against an unscrupulous foreign confederation. But the suspension of the principle of the writ was not incompatible with a gentle exercise of law, and he was of the opinion that the grievances of Ireland should be treated with tender regard for that country. After a few more explanations, not of general importance, Disraeli resumed his seat amid cheers.

Bowyer, member for Buckinghamshire, said: The policy of Lord Derby, referred to by the Premier, was uncertain. If it meant retention of office only, the new government will meet with serious opposition.

In the House of Lords, Earl Malmsby said. The subject of Irish grievances would come up for discussion on Tuesday. After announcing the change in the government he added that its policy would remain unaltered.

Earl Russell said no confidence should be placed in a policy which was always saying one thing and meaning another. He said liberal members had given their support to Lord Derby on his pledge to bring about a reduction of the franchise, but none had in reality been made. Such a path was unprecedented.

LONDON, March 7.—In the House of Commons last night, Lefevre called up the Alabama claims and urged their settlement on the plan proposed by the American Government. All future negotiations, he said, would but add to complications already existing. While he regarded a war between the two countries as unlikely he thought that all needless irritation should be shunned.

Lord Stanley was pleased at the pacific tone of Lefevre and the conciliatory spirit of Adams, the American Minister. He claimed to be entirely neutral, but no neutrality would have pleased America. What she wanted was hospitality coupled with warm sympathy and support. How could England have refused to recognize a war which Seward had already announced to be a civil war. He thought friendly arrangements still practicable. The friendly reception of Thornton at Washington was a pledge of peace. Ministers are ready to leave the question to the people of the entire world.

Foster denied Seward's showing of the case, and thought that if any influential statesman had been sent to Washington, the dispute might have been readily adjusted.

Stuart Mill contended that while England had not violated the law of neutrality, her action was unfriendly, rash and unprecedented. The separation was due, the United States, and he advised a mixed convention to settle the quest on.

Gladstone, while doubting if reparation was due, thought the matter should be referred to a convention if the Government feared such reference, the question should be settled forthwith, or given to an umpire. The country would support Stanley in a just settlement.

The debate ended here.

Nearly all the leading papers have editorials this morning on the subject of the remarkable debate in the House of Commons last evening on the Alabama question. The Times says the debate must convince the United States government that England wishes to settle by law this case in the American sense, and that the failure of forcing Britain to refer the claims to arbitration is due to no desire to shun her just obligations. Seward has only to meet Lord Stanley in like spirit to lead to an understanding. Articles in other journals are generally in the same tone.

The Fenian prisoners captured recently at Dungarvon were offered pardon in consideration that they would give their pledge to leave the kingdom. It is further reported that the prisoners unanimously refused to assent to this proposition. A double guard has been placed around Newgate where Burke, Casey and Shaw are confined. Their trial has been set for next month.

In the House of Commons last evening Charles Gilpin, member for Northampton, gave notice of a bill to abolish the death penalty.

On an order to go into Committee of Supply, Earl Mayo said he hoped the debate on the condition of Ireland would end by Friday next that he might be ready to consider the question of Irish reform.

The Marquis Pepoli, formerly French Minister to America, has been appointed to Great Britain in the same capacity.

G. W. Hunt has been re-elected from Northampton and will soon bring a bill before Parliament for the purchase by Government of all the telegraph lines in the kingdom.

PARIS, March 6.—The forthcoming ministerial budget will press the payment of the principal and interest due France on Mexican bonds.

Russia has been strongly urging on the Western Powers a scheme for an independent union of the Danubian principalities.

PARIS, March 7.—In the Corps Legislatif yesterday the law regulating the press was again under consideration. The clause forbidding private allusions was adopted by a large majority after a short debate.

BERLIN, March 7.—The bill ratifying the treaty just concluded between the representatives of the United States and the North German States has been introduced in the Council.

FROM THE NORTH.

VICTORIA, March 7.—The excitement caused by the threatened Fenian invasion still continues. H. M. gunboat Forward has been moored in this harbor and a large number of marines placed on board of her. The powder magazine, opposite the city, and the different engine houses are strongly guarded. The volunteers have received orders to hold themselves in readiness in case their services should be required, and every precaution has been taken to secure the safety of the city. The nature of the startling information received is only known to the authorities, but the general impression prevails that they have been badly hoaxed.

VICTORIA, March 9.—A fire broke out at four o'clock this morning in a two story building on Government street, occupied by D Cleal as a restaurant. Before the flames could be suppressed the entire structure was completely destroyed. Loss, $5,500; fully insured.

CONVENIENT AND SIMPLE.—BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES" are a simple and convenient form for administering, in combination, several medical substances held in general esteem among physicians in the treatment of Bronchial affections and Coughs. The Troches seldom fail to give relief.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 34, 1864. Authorized capital $500,000. Paid up capital $100,000. F. M. Bothell, President; C. Moore, Cashier. Collections, Notes and Accounts on the principal places of Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency on this Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

Snohtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art. Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched) in India ink—painted in water colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Ramsey. Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way. All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and all duplicates kept. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

Rather Rough Challenge.—"The British Tutor," a monthly New York paper of that name published in the interest of Kavanagh & Decker, Billiard Manufacturers, of New York, has the following challenge in its November number which we consider worthy to call the attention of our Billiard Manufacturers of this State:

"CHALLENGE. We will place $1000 in the hands of any responsible party whenever any manufacturer of tools for the use of Billiard Balls in the world shall say a willingness to test the quality of his goods with ours, and to venture a like sum on the decision. The cushion to be submitted to the examination of a committee of impartial and scientific men, who shall have power to investigate their merits thoroughly by actual trial with balls of every kind, etc.

"This wager is not offered for the purpose of winning money, but solely to afford convincing proof to all of the great and acknowledged superiority in all effects, and we should prefer that the money staked should go to some charitable object.

"We invite the especial attention of Messrs. Phelan & Collender to this challenge." fed21d2m4t

RETROACTIVE SALARY AT VANCOUVER. — N. Parts contributes to the Vancouver Register a lengthy communication under the above head, with numerous matters of interest and well worth reading to members of the Legislature now in session, but we prefer to stop long for an item, column, but we prefer to print it the following:

The writer of this landed from a Hudson Bay Company's lighter at Vancouver on the 11th day of October, 1850. The military and Company's employees and improvements were the only external evidences of civilization to be met with at that date. The Short claim, which subsequently became the site of the present town, was at that time unentered for land claim. At subsequent dates he came to drive Mr. Short from his claim by a mission of the Hudson Bay, which was met with a degree of courage which alone prevented its consummation.

* * * Mr. Short was drowned in 1851, while crossing the Columbia bar, on his way from San Francisco * * * the vicinity of which he was carrying on at that time by two companions, Carrillier, Major Hathaway being commanding officer of the post. The Rifle regiment, Peach Land, etc. used the places in 1849, and built many of the quarters which are still occupied. In the spring of 1850 for the Fort, where it was abandoned. * * * Major Hathaway was given to exercising flights of imagination in which he indulged in some very Quixotic enterprises among which may be mentioned as an attempt to ride to the Sandwich Islands on horseback; crossing the Columbia bar in an open boat for the purpose of going round the bar; swimming his horse around a ship which was lying in the river near where the Government wharf now stands, a leap from the second story of the commanding officer's quarters to the earth, to test the correctness of a theory he had evolved of the resisting qualities of water, which, he stoutly maintained, were precisely those of an India rubber ball. The Major being unskilled in the erroneousness of his opinion after this practical experience, from which he miraculously escaped unhurt. He finally committed suicide at his hotel in New York city, about the time of the breaking out of the late rebellion. The Lieut. Talbot who left to defend Sumter, and performed several dangerous missions to Washington prior to the bombardment, is the same who belonged to one of these companies. Peter Skene Ogden was at that time Chief Factor of the Hudson Bay Company at this place. He was a perfect Falstaff in appearance, tyrannical in disposition, but withal a rather good sort of man. * * * It is a notorious but humiliating admission, yet none the less a fact, that Vancouver had actually a larger population in 1850 than it has at this day. You wouldn't believe what a stirring, busy little burg Vancouver was in those days. The mail steamers used to land here then, and money was so plenty among the inhabitants as straw in harvest time. * * * All the now unoccupied ground lying between the Catholic church and the river, and from the line of the military reserve on the west to the ... was wet, bacon in the vast, was then regularly laid off into streets and thickly studded with houses. The ... city was mostly employees of the Company—a heterogeneous community composed about equally of Scotch, Kanakas, Canadians, Indians and half breeds.

Mr. "Greet" proposes to continue this "retrospective glance," and we shall probably take further liberties with his communications, as they are published.

THE SALMON FISHERIES AT OAK POINT.—A communication to the Vancouver paper furnishes some interesting ... Sytes of the Salmon fisheries of the lower Columbia.

We ... pings from the article as follows: Messrs Mason, Hodgkin and Sanders started the fishery opposite Oak Point in 1862. The business is now continued by Mr. G. ... two different fisheries are now carried on in the district, on both sides of the river. Last year, over ... barrels of two hundred pounds each were taken in these fisheries and salted down. Moore, Hagood & Co., and Mr. Richardson engaged in putting up Salmon in one pound cans for exportation, and this year they expect to put up not less than 300,000 cans. The Salmon put up this year are cooked in the cans, and will keep fresh for years. They are pronounced by salmon-eaters, as the best way of packing, and preparing salmon for the table. Nearly all the Salmon are sent to the Australian market. ... the whole together, the Oak Point fishery has grown to be the largest and most permanent salmon fishery on the Columbia river, and the salmon put up there, have attained a reputation for being put up in good order, and fair weight, which is likely to be kept up, as all the parties engaged in the business, are responsible men, who understand the business, and will make it a point to keep up the reputation of Oak Point Salmon. The fisheries ... use a large number of tight barrels, which have nearly all been heretofore made at other places, but ... are now being made to manufacture the ... tion, if not all of them, in one neighborhood ...

A GOOD JOKE, THE SPIRITUALIST.—A gentleman who is exceedingly fond of a "medium" not a spirit rapper, sends us the following notes, with a request to publish:

PORTLAND DAILY UNIONITARIAN:—Your interesting contemporary, the Daily Bulletin, published on Saturday last an article entitled "Woman's Wrongs," being an extract from Gail Hamilton's essays in reply to a series of letters on the subject of "Woman's Rights" by the Rev. Theodore Tilton, "who," says the Bulletin, editorially, "presents, in Portland," many strong, evidently Todd arguments. It may be worth while to inform the ... of the Bulletin that the gentleman mentioned is the Rev. John Todd, D. D., Pastor of the First Congregational Church in Pittsfield, Massachusetts. He is one of the most distinguished divines in New England, eminent alike for piety and learning, and the author of several ... widely known and read. To confound such a man with that prince of humbugs who was so recently here, ... of ignorance, of which a school-boy should be ashamed.

B.

CIRCUIT COURT, UPTON, JUDGE.—The following are the ... filed in the Circuit Court yesterday, the 10th:

... Edwards vs. James Field, judgment on verdict ... plaintiff for the sum of $325.

... Kennedy vs. Israel Gruden, J. P., and Chauncey ... Cole; suit for mandamus; petition disallowed, ... plaintiff to pay costs.

Jacob Cline vs. Mary Cline, motion to re-tax costs ... Wallace; costs re-taxed and attorney fee $10 and ... disallowed and stricken out as erroneously taxed to ... client.

... Albert Esmale vs. Arthur Mallon; action on account, ... dismissed, and the case submitted at about 3 ... P. M.

... Wilson vs. Kelly, Timons and Brooks, indicted for burglary; defendants pleaded not guilty; Bybee and Beal ... for Kelly; separate trial; jury empanneled.

[From the Providence Journal.]
The Pain Killer Abroad.
The following correspondence will show something of the estimation in which Perry Davis' Pain Killer is held on the shores of the Mediterranean. It is not surprising that a medicine that receives such testimonials as this from abroad, should find well sustained and increasing appreciation at home.
U. S CONSULATE, Tunis, Dec. 27, 1865.
To the Proprietors of Davis' Pain Killer, Providence, R. I.—Gentlemen: The enclosed has just been received from my friend Tulin late Consul General of Norway and Sweden and of Prussia in this place. No comment is needed. Truly yours, GEORGE PERRY.
GENOA, December 16, 1865.
DEAR SIR:—Accept thanks for this third supply of Davis' "Pain Killer." This medicine has often relieved me of serious indisposition, and I would not on any account consent to be without it both for myself and my family.
I have recommended it to my late colleagues and friends in Tunis and Genoa, and at my request one of the largest druggists in this city has sent an order to New York to meet the demand in this place.
Truly yours, G. A. TULIN,
Ex-Consul General of Sweden, Norway & Prussia in Tunis.

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. The Guests of the Heart.

Soft falls through the gathering twilight
The rain from the dripping eaves,
And ofttimes wakes a tremulous rustle
The dead and the dying leaves
While afar in the midst of the shadows
I hear the sweet voice of Lelia
Come borne on the wind of the autumn,
That gently rises and swells

They call and they answer each other—
They answer and mingle again
As the deep and the shrill in an anthem
Make harmony still in their strain
As the voices of sentinels mingle
In mountainous regions of snow
Till from hill-top to hill-top a chorus
Floats down to the valleys below

The shadows, the fire light of even,
The sounds of the bells' distant chime
Come bringing, with rain softly falling,
Sweet thoughts of a shadowy time
The shutter-ess sense of seclusion,
From storm and intruders shut
We feel when we hear in the midnight
The patter of rain on the roof.

When the spirit goes forth in its yearnings,
To take all its wanderers home;
Or, alas! in the regions of fancy,
Delights on swift pinions to roam,
I quietly sit by the fire-light—
The fire-light so bright and so warm—
For I know that those only who love me
Will seek me through shadow and storm

But should they be absent this evening,
Should even the household depart
Wholly, I should not be lonely;
There still would be guests in my heart
The hosts of friends that I cherish,
The smile and the glance, and the tone,
Will haunt me wherever I wander,
And thus I am never alone

With those who have left for behind them
The joys and the sorrows of time
Who sing the sweet songs of the angels
In a purer and fairer clime!

Welcome, O evening of autumn!
Your rain and your shadows may fall,
My loved and my lost ones you bring me—
My heart holds a feast with them all.

The Tables Reversed.

ROMANCE OF A SEWING MACHINE.

[From the Springfield Register.]

About a year since a very pretty girl arrived in this city from the East, and secured a position which she considered highly eligible, in one of our most fashionable millinery and dress-making establishments. After a short residence here, she took charge of an infant class in a Sunday school, sang in a church choir, and in every way soon became a favorite among young lady society.

Her rare beauty attracted the attention of a clerk in one of the largest business houses in the city, and he, too, was favorably acknowledged suitor. He was permitted to escort her to church, and pay her car fare when they went out to see the base ball matches last Summer. In the meantime a "journeyman" tailor also paid his addresses, but with how much success did not clearly appear at that time. As the cool weather came on last Fall, the clerk urged the mistress of his affections to name an early day for their nuptials. She deferred a final answer on a plea of maiden reluctance as long as possible, but when he became more pressing, she spoke like a woman of sense.

She said she had been educated in her father's family, and had been nurtured with all the care which affluent parents could bestow. She had been deprived, by death, of both her parents and she was somehow or other left destitute. She said she loved the clerk, and would marry him as soon as she had established the fact that she was able to maintain herself independently by her own exertions, but having been so far in a position which was not one of responsibility, she felt she would be unworthy her generous lover if she — to him from the chair of a sewing girl. JOHN BULL FRIGHTENED—WHAT ARE THE YANKEES DOING?—It is futile for Englishmen to ignore the significance of the advances which the United States are making upon the West Indies. At the moment the irresistible laws of nature seem to favor the aggressive policy of the United States. No sooner have the Americans obtained by purchase the possession of St. Thomas and St John, than convulsions of the most unparalleled kind seem to warn Europeans from further intercourse with the islands of the West. The king of Denmark parts with his subjects, and bestows upon them a benediction that would be pathetic but for its relation to the pecuniary. The American nation gains that footing in the Archipelago of the West which it has for twenty years sought to obtain. At the same instant Spain, bankrupt in credit, convulsed by political dissensions, and broken as a member of the European confraternity, offers, for a sum of money, to part with Cuba and the adjacent possessions, and to hand them over to the United States. While the readiness with which the United States have accepted the annexation of St. John and St. Thomas testifies to the anxiety of the West to acquire territory, the completion at a — with which Congress has received the — t of the willingness of Spain to surrender Cuba establishes the anxiety of the States to prevent Central America and the Antipodes, Englishmen are inert. Unwilling to admit the possibility that they can be crippled, slow to believe that their prestige can be lessened, they are with difficulty persuaded that any proceedings of antagonistic nationalities can threaten her dominion. But out of this advance of the Americans into the Carribean sea arises a complication which the future will have to solve—a question whether America is to stand upon the peninsula of the West and bar the progress of Europe to Australia, or whether England shall be able to command, as she has been in time past, the communication that nature dictates between her seat of government and her remote possessions.—London Court Journal.

A Drove of Bulls.

The following is from Harper's Magazine twelve years old, which is well worth republishing

The following piece of composition may be chucked against anything ever produced. It was written half a century ago, by Sir Doyle Roche, a member of the Irish Parliament in the Troublous Times of "Ninety Eight, when a handful of men from the county of Wexford, struck terror to the hearts of many a gallant son of Mars, as well as the worthy writer himself. The latter was all dressed to a friend in London, and it is said enough to be new to nine in ten of the readers of the "Drawer"

"MY DEAR SIR: Having now a little peace and quietness, I sit down to inform you of the dreadful bustle and confusion we are all in from those blood thirsty rebels, most of whom are thank God killed and dispersed. We are in a pretty mess, can get nothing to eat or any wine to drink, except whisky, and when we sit down to dinner, we are obliged to keep both hands armed. While I write this I hold a sword in each hand and a pistol in the other

I concluded from the beginning that this would be the end of it, and I see I was right for it is not half over yet. At present are such goings on, that everything is at a stand still. I should have answered your letters a fortnight ago, but I did not receive it till this morning. Indeed scarcely a mail arrives safe without being robbed. No longer ago than yesterday the coach with the mails from Dublin was robbed near this town. The bags had been judiciously left behind for fear of accident; and by good luck there was nobody in it except some outside passengers, who had nothing for the thieves to take. Last Thursday notice was given that a gang of rebels was advancing under the French standard, but they had no drums except bagpipes.

Immediately every man in the place, including women and children, ran out to meet them. We soon found our force much too little; we were near to think of retreating. Death was in every face, but to it we went, and by the time half of our little party were killed, we began to be all alive again. Fortunately, the rebels had no guns except pistols and pikes, and as we had plenty of muskets and ammunition, we put them all to the sword. Not a soul of them escaped, except some that were drowned in an adjacent bog; and in a very short time nothing was heard but silence. Their uniforms were all different colors, but mostly green. After the action we went to rummage a sort of which they had left them. All we found was a few pikes without heads, a parcel of empty bottles full of water, and a bundle of French commissions filled with Irish names. Troops are now stationed all round the country, which exactly squares with my ideas. I have only time to add that I am in great haste.

P. S. If you do not receive this, it must have miscarried, therefore you must write to let me know!

THE UNION PARTY.—The following is the concluding paragraph of the great speech recently delivered in the Senate by Gov. Morton of Indiana:

Sir, there is one great difference between this Union party and the so-called Democratic party. Our principles are those of humanity; they are those of justice; they are those of equal rights; they are principles that appeal to the hearts and the consciences of men; while on the other side we hear appeals to the prejudice of race against race. The white man is overwhelming in the majority in this country, and that majority is yearly increased by half a million of white men from abroad, and that majority gaining in proportion from year to year, until the colored men will finally be but a handful in this country; and yet we hear the prejudices of the white race appealed to to crush this other race, and to prevent it from rising to supremacy and power. Sir there is nothing noble, there is nothing generous, there is nothing lovely, in that policy or that appeal. How does that principle compare with ours? We are standing upon the broad platform of the Declaration of Independance, that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among those are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." We say that those rights are not given by law, are not given by the constitution, but they are the gift of God to every man born into the world Oh, sir, how glorious is this great principle compared with the inhuman—I might say the heathenish—appeal to the prejudice of race against race; the endeavor further to excite the strong against the weak; the endeavor further to deprive the weak of their rights of protection against the strong.
